BREATHITT COUNTY

The Place of Opportunity for the Farmer and the Small Investor—Compared to the West.

"Young man, go West, and grow up with the country," were the words of Horace Greely years ago. At that time he advised only young men to go West, and for several years no great man has repeated the advice. The tide of immigration swept westward until the demand was filled. The development of the country was rapid and fortunes were sometimes quickly made, but fortunes were also lost, and there are more poor men who went West than are yet poor than those of the same class who are wealthy, or even well off. But within the past few years a great change has taken place within our Western States. Young professional men flocking to the West, thousands of farmers drifting westward each year have taxed those States to the utmost with their limited improvements, and now each year hundreds of young men are coming East in search of better opportunities. The West is yet a good place for the capitalist who is willing to risk his wealth in establishing public improvements, but for the poor man it has only drudgery, and often pays him in want and fevers. In some places the land is poor; in others rich, but nowhere in the West do we find land that will grow as great a variety of crops as our own Kentucky soil. Have you been told there is land that has tripled its value within the last ten years in the West? Then, we will tell you there is land in Breathitt county that has increased in value ten times over in as many years; and, more than that, we will tell you there is land in the great West that will not sell for half what its owners paid for it one year ago. Truly the tide of immigration has struck the Rockies and is flowing backward.

It may be a startling thing to you, but we are not kidding you. For the farmer and small investor Breathitt county affords the greatest opportunity of any locality within the boundaries of the United States. In proof of this we give the following facts: Our railroad facilities are good. We have a first-class market within one hundred miles of us. All over the United States there is a cry for timber, and the plea to save timber. In Breathitt county there are thousands of acres of timber that will increase in value from 100 to 500 per cent. within the next ten years. What better investment does the capitalist desire? There are coal fields that will abound in that mineral long after the Eastern mines have been exhausted.

In regards to the farmer, there are three great industries entirely undeveloped that this county is especially fitted for. First is the growing of fruit, such as apples, peaches and grapes. Second, the raising of sheep, by which the vast unpastured lands could be turned into a source of great wealth. Third, is the raising of poultry.

The coves in the hillsides are well adapted to fruit growing and no part of Kentucky will raise better fruit than this section. Apples are shipped into Jackson when this county should supply Lexington with more than one-half of its apples and peaches, and then send large shipments to Cincinnati. The quality of the fruit here is the best and there is rarely a season when the crop is a failure. Grapes are shipped here from Lexington and Cincinnati. We should reverse the process and it would be very profitable.

That the sheep raising industry would pay well here is so evident that it is only necessary to point out the vast unused pastures in Breathitt county. Dogs? A few dead sheep, a phial of strychnine, and that objection is soon done away, especially when one builds sheep folds.

The poultry business would pay if well attended to, as this county is an unusually healthy one, for fowls. Chickens must have gravel and range. Where is there more of these essentials than in Breathitt county?

You, who are thinking of making the West your home, when you have traveled through Arkansas, Oklahoma, Indian Territory, and Texas, as we have, and at every station seen faces that bore the stamp of disappointment, poverty and home-sickness; seen the lack of necessary improvements; felt the loneliness and fever in the very atmosphere, you will wonder where is the "Golden West." Look about you and you will find opportunities the like of which the West has never seen.

CLOSING OUT SALE.

We want you to know that by January, 1st, 1907, we intend to close out our entire stock of merchandise, consisting largely of Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Ladies' and Gents' Furnishings, Groceries, &c., &c., at whatever prices can be agreed upon between the customer and ourselves, not to exceed cost and carriage and the actual expense of doing business. It will be largely to your advantage, to see us first. We invite all who are thoughtful of their own interest, come and be convinced. Cleanest and newest stock in town.

Yours truly,

Plowing Kills Pests.

One value of fall plowing which is often overlooked is the destruction of many insects and bugs that infest the soil. If the ground is turned up to a depth of several inches these pests will be brought to the surface and those that are not eaten by the birds will generally freeze to death. To get the best results in the way of destroying bugs and insects, plowing should be done as late as possible. Just before freezing weather begins is the best time.

FIRE DEPARTMENT NEEDED

Enormous Fire Loss in Jackson in the Last Few Years Makes Better Protection Necessary.

The burning of the residence of Harvey Burris and the Arlington Hotel within so short space of time forcibly demonstrates the fact that Jackson not only needs a fire department but must have one. Either of the fires mentioned could have been extinguished if there had been a fire fighting system, even with the crudest kind of appliances. As we said last week, enough property has been destroyed in Jackson within the past ten years to equip the finest fire department in the State. But this is not the only monetary loss to the citizens of the town because of their neglect to protect their property against fire. The insurance rates are much higher here than they would be if the town had a good fire department. The difference in the cost of insurance alone would, in a few years, more than pay the expense of equipping the town with a respectable fire fighting system.

There are several sections on both Broadway and Main streets where, should a fire break out under present conditions, it would be impossible to check the flames before from ten to fifteen buildings had been destroyed, and if there should be a high wind at the time of such a fire there is no way of estimating the amount of property that would be destroyed.

There are two methods of equipping the town as it should be in the fire-fighting line. The first is by a steam fire engine and a system of fire cisterns or wells. This would insure the town against any great loss by fire if properly handled. The second and better way is to install water-works in Jackson. "O, but the cost," you say. Then we tell you there would be no cost to the town that would not be more than paid back in actual cash.

There are several sections on both Broadway and Main streets where, should a fire break out under present conditions, it would be impossible to check the flames before from ten to fifteen buildings had been destroyed, and if there should be a high wind at the time of such a fire there is no way of estimating the amount of property that would be destroyed.

The above mentioned methods are certainly well suited to the needs of Jackson. The fire engine would involve less immediate expense than a system of water-works, but the latter has several advantages: it provides a source of revenue while an engine would be a constant drain on the city treasury; it does not require the mechanical knowledge to fight a fire that an engine does; it is a quicker process and greatest of all it adds to the health and comfort of the citizens. Think over it; talk over it; act upon it.

At present the town has not even a hand engine or a bucket brigade. It is up to Jackson to wake up or burn up.

Charles E. Kincaid, a former Kentuckian, died in the Cincinnati Hospital last Friday. Kincaid killed Congressman Press Taulbee, of the Tenth district of Kentucky in Washington about fifteen years ago.

At Lexington the price of coal is soaring skyward. The advance in price has been so marked that the newspapers investigated the cause. The dealers claim that it is impossible to get coal into Lexington owing to the scarcity of cars.

The United States Supreme Court decided the case of the Lexington and Cincinnati Bridge Company vs. State of Kentucky, Saturday, in favor of the State. The company objected to the valuation placed upon its property for taxation.

A farmer at Richmond offered to give the Young Ladies' Presbyterian Society of the Presbyterian church all the corn they would shuck in one day, and the society managed to get away with about eight barrels, which was sold on the street, bringing about $25.

A plot was unearthed at the State prison at Frankfort through which one or two escapes have recently been effected and others planned. Will Gill, a Boyd county prisoner, disappeared at noon Monday from the dining room of the penitentiary and a thorough search failed to reveal his whereabouts. One of his fellow workers in the dining room was "sweated," and led the officials to the sandroom of the chair shop, where Gill was dug out from under the floor. The convict told of the plot to escape and gave the names of several of the most desperate prisoners as being implicated.

In a small riot at State College on Wednesday night of last week several policemen were roughly handled. Shelby Jett, Jr., of Madison county was arrested on the charge of carrying concealed and deadly weapons, but was acquitted in a trial by jury. The grand jury at Lexington and the members of the college faculty spent several days this week investigating the conduct of the student body. Every year it has been the custom of the State College boys on Holloway to take possession of street cars, blockade traffic and damage property. An effort of the police to put a stop to this practice brought on a riot, in which rocks, bricks, clubs and revolvers were used.

THE PRIMARY.

Not an Attempt Made to Conceal the Fact that Democrats Were Being Robbed of Their Votes.

The so-called primary election last Tuesday was the greatest farce ever enacted in Breathitt county. Although the ballots were here several days before the election, none were sent to Lost Creek, Buckhorn, Spring Fork or Elliottsville, the four largest Democratic precincts in the county. Ever since we can remember these four precincts were relied on to give whatever Democratic majority Breathitt county could return and before the era of the machine rule in this county they were almost solidly Democratic. These precincts include all the voters of Troublesome creek and a part of the North Fork of the Kentucky river and almost all of Quicksand creek and comprise more than one-third of the area of Breathitt county. Yet they were wholly disfranchised in this primary because they would have been liable to cast a good majority of their votes for McCreary and Hays. No list of officers was ever published and the chairman told us on Sunday evening—less than two days before the election—that he had no list.

We have not seen any of the returns from that primary, but we are told that the votes cast were almost solidly for Beckham and Hager and that their majorities far exceeded the total vote cast for Hopkins on the same day. We are told that 95 votes were cast in Jackson precinct No. 2, 94 of which were stenciled exactly alike for Beckham, Hager and the minor offices. Who believes that such a thing could have happened had the election been carried out legally. We don't know who were the officers in the primary as there were none where we were, but we hope they will be able to explain how all the ballots cast were so nearly alike, and we hope that some one will be able to explain how so many men who were for McCreary changed their minds so suddenly.

We had hoped all along that this primary would be conducted so fairly that no one could have any cause for complaint but as it is we do not see why any Democrat should feel himself obligated to vote for a nominee he had no voice in selecting.

According to reports frauds have been committed in many parts of the State in the interest of the machine. We are for the people and against the machine. We believe the people of the State will do to the machine next year what Breathitt county has in the past two elections. The people have had no show in this primary, but they will have a chance next year to bury the machine so deep that it will never hear the horn blow.

ELECTION REFRAINS.

Some Items of Trouble Caused
By the Election on Last Tuesday.

In an election row at the head of Licking river in Magoffin county Tuesday, Nero Howard instantly killed Jack Pinks. Chas. Howard was shot by George Wirman. Pinks' father-in-law, receiving a dangerous wound in his hip, and Nero Howard was wounded by an unknown party. The fighting was brought on by the use of campaign whiskey which had been given out very freely.

Four policemen, Captain William Jenkins, D. J. McCarty, Lieut. Overly and Thomas Hanley of Lexington, are charged with obstructing and interfering with the election. The men were recognized each on a $100 bond. The trials will come up on 14th. of this month.

There was a pistol duel on the streets of Lancaster Tuesday afternoon, in which one man was killed and two wounded. James Kennedy shot and killed Milton Estes. Estes also did some shooting and Harne Foley and John De Bord, two bystanders, were wounded. The shooting was near the polls of the primary and quite a crowd was near. The men were avowed enemies and Kennedy comes from a family with a criminal record, having one brother in the penitentiary for murder and another brother on trial for a similar crime. Kennedy attempted to escape after the shooting, but was captured. It was necessary to bury the prisoner to Stanford for safe keeping owing to the threatening attitude of the crowd.

GENERAL ELECTION NEWS.

Ohio goes Republican by 75,000. The Democrats have carried Missouri by 7,000, electing the entire State ticket and twelve out of sixteen Congressmen.

Cummins, Republican, elected Governor of Iowa by 50,000. The Democrats elect two Congressmen. The Legislature is Republican.

James H. Higgins, Democrat, carries Rhode Island. The rest of the Republican State ticket was elected.

John A. Johnson, Democrat, has been re-elected Governor of Minnesota by 40,000.

In West Virginia every Congressman elected is a Republican.

Texas is solidly Democratic. The entire Republican State ticket has been elected in Wyoming.

Solid Democratic Congressional delegations have been elected in Georgia, Arkansas and Mississippi. Republicans win in the following States, Nebraska, Idaho, Colorado, Kansas, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Indiana.

Minnesota and North Dakota are Democratic.

The Republican majority in the next Congress will be over fifty.

Slayers in Moderation.

Tommy is a lonely little boy who has no brothers or sisters. He is very fond of three little girls named Ethel, Maud and May. One evening his mother was listening to him say his prayers, and she was rather surprised to hear him add to his petitions, "Dear Lord, please send me an Ethel, a Maud and a May."

After he had finished his mother tried to explain to him that they were too poor to have a large family like that. Tommy listened attentively and then without a word stopped down on his knees again and offered up this supplementary petition:

"Dear Lord, mother says we can't afford an Ethel and a Maud and a May, so don't send 'em in a bunch. Just send us an Ethel, and when we can afford the rest I'll let you know."—Lippincott's Magazine.

An Ideal Costume For the Practical Housekeeper.

There are many women who do their own housework either as a general rule or during one of those domestic upheavals which sometimes attack the bliss of the most careful housewife. There is, however, a vast difference in the way in which different women regard the question of housework. Some really enjoy it, some consider it mental and something to be ashamed of while others moan because they find it so hard and toilsome. Yet there are many women striving to make ends meet on a tiny income who will not look the question of housework squarely in the face. There are many small houses which would be much happier places if their contented housewives could content themselves with a maid's place and cook, her house.

DRESS FOR HOUSEWORK.

ent place and herself a much healthier and happier woman. But there must be no pretense about it. There must be a special dress, and one neat, practical and pretty enough to glory in should it be necessary to see people during working hours.

The working gown must be washable and experience suggests a pretty colored linen as the fabric. Green is a cool and beautiful color, it washes well and is somehow restful to wear. The gown must be simply made. A blouse and skirt is unsatisfactory because it is never tidy behind. The illustration shows an ideal costume for the practical housekeeper. The tucked bodice is set into a band into which is sewn the slightly gored full skirt. The sleeves have two sets of buttons at the wrist. One holds the cuff loosely and the next quite tight. The sleeve can be undone altogether if bare arms feel more energetic. An apron is necessary, and while linen is nicest for this, and the simplest the better.

No lady would think of sweeping and dusting with unprotected hair; the process is too unpleasant. For this purpose a mob cap is the best. It is made of spotted muslin and is but a circular piece of material with a frill attached. A slot for the string or ribbon may be used to gather it up after washing, but a banding of insertion, through which the ribbon is run is perhaps daintier.

IN A BEAR'S CLUTCH.

The Prostrate Beast Was Not as Dead
as He Seemed.

In Russia it is the practice to hunt bears just as they are creeping out after their long sleep. As things are managed the most timid individual may go bear hunting with perfect impunity. Armed with a good rifle, accompanied by a friend and a guide similarly equipped, the most unpracticed hand can usually get his quarry before the half awake creature has proceeded far from his lair. And yet occasionally the unforeseen occurs, as it did in an adventure related by Mr. Whishaw in "Out of Doors in Czarland."

The baron and the colonel had purchased rights over a hibernating bear, declared to be one of the largest ever seen. When the animal was fairly dislodged from his place of concealment the baron, who had secured the first shot, fired, and the enormous creature fell prostrate and motionless.

The baron was jubilant. Handing his rifle to the keeper, he seated himself on a fallen tree.

"It's a magnificent specimen," said the colonel. "Wouldn't it be awkward if it should get up?"

"Get up!" exclaimed the baron. "He's as dead as Caesar. Look!" And going up to the prostrate creature he gave it a kick with his heavy shooting boot. To his horror the bear roared and rose to its full height. With blood pouring out of its mouth it fell bodily on the baron, forcing him to his back and pitching on top of him. The colonel took one step toward his rifle, but the movement caused the bear to place one huge paw on the baron's chest and to fix its wicked eyes on the colonel.

"For pity's sake, don't move!" said the baron. "If you do he'll murder me. Let him fix his attention on you. He suspects you and won't move if you don't."

The moments seemed interminable. At last the keeper managed to edge near enough to receive the baron's whispered instructions.

"Creep up behind the colonel," gasped the poor man, "take his rifle and shoot the bear behind its shoulder!"

Luckily the keeper was an excellent marksman and shot the bear through the heart. The creature loosed its hold, slithered and rolled off the half stifled baron.

An Invalid's Alphabet.

We all know the misery of being kept in bed for a long or short period and how heavily time hangs. We exhaust books, papers—in fact, everything—and become a burden to ourselves.

A girl with original ideas is responsible for "the invalid's alphabet." This consists of a series of letters, one of which only is to be opened each day. The "alphabet" is started by cutting all kinds of interesting pictures and matter from various magazines. Let us suppose the invalid is fond of art. If so, let a stand for art. Get some nice smooth paper and fold a sheet over as if to fit an envelope. Write on the outside, "A for Art," and gum inside some artistic reproduction (if by a well known artist, write a few items in the "Who's Who?" style).

The envelope is made of bright lined crepe paper, cut and folded to shape, tied with baby ribbon and not sealed, and on the address side is pasted a large cut out capital letter. There are lots of interesting subjects for the remaining letters of the alphabet—B, for "babies" or "birds," F for "fun"—any amount of jokes and pictures—M for "music" or even "motors," and the helpful R, for "religion."

Such is the main idea of the "invalid's alphabet," and the weary sufferer will look forward to each day that witnesses the opening of a fresh envelope.

LANGLEY ELECTED.

Hon. John W. Langley was elected to Congress from this district by a majority of about 1,000 over F. A. Hopkins. Following is a list of majorities by counties:

For Langley: Breathitt, 330; Pike, 500; Lee, 318; Estill, 275; Martin, 604; Magallon, 663; Johnson, 1,200. Total, 3,890.

For Hopkins—Morgan, 500; Elliott, 353; Wolfe, 321; Menifee, 300; Montgomery, 18; Powell, 42; Clark, 731; Floyd, 250; Knott, 389. Total, 2,897.

THE VOTE IN BREATHITT.
The election passed off quietly in Breathitt county, giving John W. Langley a majority of 230 for Congress. The majorities by precincts are as follows:

For Langley—Jackson No. 1, 26; Jackson No. 3, 69; Frozen, 113; John B. Lewis, 72; Crockettville, 29; George's Branch, 86; Spring Fork, 12; Elliottsville, 7. Total majorities, 405.

For Hopkins—Jackson, No. 2, 11; Crawford's, 4; Terry, 14; Lost Creek, 10; Buckhorn, 25; Taulbee, 11. Total majorities, 75.

Langley's majority in county, 330.

PRIMARY RETURNS.
Returns up until this morning indicate that the following candidates will be declared the nominees:

For Governor, Hager.
For United States Senator, Beckham.

For Attorney General, Hendrick.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction, Gullion.
Commissioner of Agriculture, Newman.

The remainder of the ticket having no opposition, we hope were honestly nominated.

The primary was a surprise in that McCreary and Hays carried Lexington, Louisville and also Covington. It had been conceded that if these candidates could carry these cities they would win. However, by what appears to be and doubtless is, the most unique system of fraud in the annals of corrupt politics, covering a greater part of the State Hays was completely snowed under and McCreary will be beaten in the final count. McCreary has not yet given up hope and will contend till the final official count has been received.

In the event of a tie, the judges have said it undoubtedly is, more likely Senator McCreary will still refuse to enter a contest, and retire from politics and the Democratic party in this State will have lost the last of its time honored leaders—the men who heaped honor instead of disgrace upon the party. It looked as though the Democrats might smash the machine in this primary, but the machine has smashed the party.

KENTUCKY CONGRESSMEN.
Republicans made a gain of two Congressmen in Kentucky. Following is a list of Congressmen elected in this State:

Districts—
First—Ollie M. James, Dem.
Second—A. O. Stanley, Dem.
Third—Dr. A. D. James, Rep.
Fourth—Ben Johnson, Dem.
Fifth—Swagger Sherley, Dem.
Sixth—Joseph Rhinock, Dem.
Seventh—W. P. Kimball, Dem.
Eighth—Harvey Helm, Dem.
Tenth—John W. Langley, Rep.
Eleventh—D. C. Edwards, Rep.

IN NEW YORK.
Returns show that Hughes was elected Governor of New York by a safe majority. However in the State a great many of the minor offices went to the Democratic candidates.

REPUBLICAN CONGRESS.
With a slight Democratic gain Congress will still remain Republican by a majority of 56. The Democrats have gained 29 members by the elections held in the various States on Tuesday.

SEAT IN THE SENATE

Long Way From Beckham—Will Be Defeated in Regular Election—Claim of Fraud Made.

A dispatch to the Louisville Herald from Lexington says: Should the Frankfort machine and its adherents throughout the State succeed in counting Beckham the winner in the Senatorial fight, it is predicted by McCreary leaders in this city that the entire Democratic ticket will be doomed to defeat in the regular election next year.

The local McCreary leaders are not satisfied with the defeat administered to Beckham in Lexington Tuesday, but are preparing to punish the alleged repeaters and others who attempted to dominate the election and bring about the defeat of Senator McCreary.

The names of several hundred repeaters have been secured and they will be presented to the grand jury with all the facts in the case and indictments asked for. In several precincts in the city the majority of the votes received by Beckham look suspicious. In the Southern depot precinct Beckham received 44 votes, of which are said to be illegal. Out of about 60 or 70 votes were cast by alleged repeaters, and this same ratio prevailed in other city precincts.

One of the McCreary leaders said Wednesday morning that Beckham did not receive over 200 respectable white votes in the city, the others being cast by illegal voters on the certificates purchased openly from the negroes who registered as Democrats.

Circuit Clerk James C. Rogers, one of the McCreary leaders, said that the defeat administered to Beckham in the cities of Louisville and Lexington should be sufficient demonstration that the people of the State were tired of Beckham and of gang rule as administered from Frankfort, and that Beckham would never enter the United States Senate, even if his managers should succeed in wresting the majority of votes from Senator McCreary through fraud.

Fraudulent nominations don't go well in Breathitt county when the votes are counted as cast.

Confidence Talks With Cobbler Hans

People Tell Him of Their Troubles and He Helps Them
Out of It.

[Copyright, 1906, by Ruby Douglas.]

If you vhas a blacksmith you vhas too noisy; if you vhas an undertaker you vhas too solemn; if you vhas a doctor you vhas too cold hearted; if you vhas a coal man you vhas in der combine; if you vhas a cobbler, and all alone in your shop dot people come in and gif you der confidence and vhas some sympathy, I keep in my window all der time a sign reading:

"Here vhas some sympathy and confidence for all. Come in and tell der cobbler all about it."

Und people come in almost every hour, and everybody brings some shoes to mend. I just get my shop open der older morning when a woman comes in mit her shoes in her hand und tears in her eyes. She vhas short und fat und motherly, und she had been weeping.

"Hans, talk to me in confidence," she says und she hauds me der shoes.

"What vhas der troubles?" I says.

"Shust der same ash for five years past. My husband says I vhas too short und too fat. He makes fun of me und calls me names. Dis morning he says I better go mit some side-show ash der fat woman. He says I don't have some soul in me. He says I can't tell der difference between a glorious sunset und a bog in a pen. If I shuke der house when I walk he calls me an earthquake. Hans, my heart vhas broke, und I don't know what to do."

I let her cry for five minutes, und den I says:

"My dear woman, you don't do nothing. I haf seen your husband, und I know he vhas a rust of a man who don't weight a hundred pounds. He vhas shouders of you."

"You vhasn't fat enough," Venus weighed ten pounds more than you do. When she gets into a street car dot end of it stinks down. She has a arm like a hitching post, und it vhas so far around her dot a child gets tired of walking. Shakespeare says, 'Gif me a fat woman und I will gif you an angel.' Vhas dot husband of yours a bigger man dan Shakespeare?"

"But don't I have some souls and sentiment?"

"More ash a carload, my good woman. Your soul vhas ash big ash a whole calfkin, und I bet you don't go down to Coney Island und see der waves break on der beach mitout you make up some poetry."

"Yes, dot vhas so. Last week when I vhas down dere I come home und write:

"I stood upon the sandy shore;
The tide was red und high,
And my enraptured eye beheld
A dead horse floating by."

"I read dot to my husband, und he says I vhas no poetry—nothing spir- ituelle about it."

"Dot vhas shouders some more. He can't write poetry himself, und so he don't want you to. A dead horse vhas spirituelle if he vhas der der right color. Go home, young woman, go home und know you vhas all right. Vhy, if some one comes here und says to me vhas dere some woman around here to be an angel in a procession I mention your name first of all. Yes, sir, you bet, und der newspapers full over ever odder to get your picture."

"Hans, you vhas der best man living," says dot woman. Und vhen she goes out she vhas smiling und making some dimples in her fat cheeks.

Dot same day an old man comes in to have a cement patch on his shoe for 15 cents. He sits down mit a grunt und don't say nothings for ten minutes. Den he speaks up:

"Cobbler, I vhas courting a widow woman. I belief I spend one hoondred dollars in one year huying her presents. She says she vhas marry me, but vhen she finds I don't own some brewery she throws me down. When I talk back to her she calls me an old fossil und says I have one foot in der grave, und dot never in her life vill she marry her grandfather."

"Und dot hurts your feelings, eh?" I says.

"Mebbe it does. Cobbler, be honest mit me. Vhas I a back number? Vhas I on der brink of der grave?"

I bog mit him for two minutes. He vhas more ash seventy years old, und he looks to be ninety. I looks und looks, und den I laughs und says:

"My boy, when you come into dis shop a few minutes ago I belief it vhas a young man who had knocked der head off his shoe. If you vhas over forty-five I eat oop all my sole leather und let der trust rob me some more."

"Hans, I vhas depending on you."

"Und so you can, but you can never, never depend on some widow woman. She like to marry you for your property. She likes to be rich und swell around und here it is der papers dot she kill somebody mit her automobile. Vhen she finds you vhas no Vanderbilt she vhas mad und speaks out. Vhy, I have been through dot same mit ash much ash ten times."

"I vhas all right?" he says as he begins to smile.

"Nobody could be righter. Vhy, man, you shall marry twice yet before you die. Let dot selfish, disappointed widow woman go by Texas und do you hunt oop some young girl to be your wife."

"Hing me if I don't. Say, cobbler, your head vhas screwed on der right chap. If I talk mit President Roosevelt I don't belief he do me so much good. Take a quarter for dot patch und say nothings to nobody. Vhen I get married I send you a bottle of wine."

Und den comes in a young man. He tries to be very flip ash he says he vhas some lifts put on his heels, but I can see dot he haf some troubles on his mind. I don't say nothings, und he whistles und sings for ten minutes. Den he drops his voice down und says:

"Cobbler, vhas you ever in love?"

"Twenty different times, my son."

"Und did you ever nak a girl to marry you?"

"Der same twenty."

"It vhas all right if you vhas in love mit a girl, but how can you tell if she vhas in love mit you?"

"Here vhas one hoondred ways. If dot girl lets you hold her hand while you vhas riding on der street car she vhas in love mit you und you can bet on it."

"Yes, I think the same, but suppose she'd laugh at me when I asked her to be my wife?"

"Young man, don't you be afraid. Der good Lord put males und females into dis world to mate. He put men und women here to love und marry. Dere vhas some shaks for all der fills. Dot girl vhas shust as anxious to marry ash you vhas, only she must wait to be asked. How far avhay does she live?"

"Eight around der corner."

"Vell, here vhas a pair of shoes for you to put on. You go right around der corner und ask her to be your wife."

"Lord, cobbler, but dot vhas awful soon!"

"Marriage vhas like a boll. Der sooner it comes to a head der better. Don't be red in der face. Don't get der shaks. Don't stop around ash if you vhas going to have a tooth pulled. Shust walk right oop dere und be back in fifteen minutes."

He vhas afraid, und I haf to push him outdoors, but he takes a long breath und walks off. In ten minutes he vhas back, und soch a happy man I never saw. He shakes me by one hand und by both hands, und he gives me half a dollar extra, und vhen he goes avhay joy attacks out all over him.

Maybe I make more money if I vhas president of a trust und rob der peoples all I could, but a little shop und der good will of der peoples vhas enough for me shust now.

Clever Thoughts Out of the Mouth of Baby

MAMMA—Tommy, what is the baby crying for?

Tommy—Cause he doesn't know things. I had to take his cake and show him how to eat it.

Teacher—Can you tell me what an aristocrat is, Johnny?

Johnny—Yes, ma'am. An aristocrat is a poor person who boasts of his rich relations.

First Little Girl—My papa says your papa hates work.

Second Little Girl—Oh, no; he doesn't. He likes work, but he hates to do it.

Visitor—Well, my little man, I suppose you take after your father, do you not?

Little Man (aged five)—No, sir, but he takes after me with a stick sometimes.

Margie (aged four)—Is your papa a woman?

Elsie (aged five)—No, course not. Margie—Well, I heard my papa say he had a dress suit on at the theater the other night.

Little Elmer—My mamma can tell things by lookin' at people's hands.

Visitor—Indeed! Is she a palmist?

Little Elmer—I dunno. Every time she looks at my hands she tells me to go and wash 'em.—Chicago News.

"Here is an account of a bureau that was recently established for the purpose of providing speeches for women to deliver. What are you laughing about?"

"The idea of anybody writing speeches for my wife to deliver! That's funny."

"Is your wife a speaker?"

"Yes."

"Well, wouldn't her audience appreciate it if her speeches were more carefully prepared?"

"No."

"Why not?"

"I'm her audience."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

According to the Medical Record, eggs are a useful in the following applications: A mustard plaster made with the white of an egg will not leave a blister. A raw egg, taken immediately, will carry down a fish bone that cannot be extracted. The white skin that lines the shell is a useful application to a boil. White of egg, beaten up with loaf sugar and lemon, relieves hoarseness—a teaspoonful taken once every hour. An egg in the morning cup of coffee is a good tonic. A raw egg, with the yolk unbroken, in a glass of wine is beneficial for convalescents.
